Description of services rendered: Condor Country Consulting staff performed a multi-year, pre- and post-construction, San Francisco garter snake trapping study at a habitat enhancement site to assess the effectiveness of the habitat enhancement project. Our staff collected data on all wildlife species observed. Prepared annotated species lists and a final report. Our staff also conducted a separate survey of the entire Pescadero Marsh Natural Preserve in order to characterize habitat and map the location of the endangered snake to assist with land management decisions.
